180 ACRE INDUSTRIAL SUBDIVISION

A Preliminary Plan for the 180 acre industrial subdivision, east of Route 93 and north of Concord St., known to the people of Wilmington as 'Barbo's' was filed, Tuesday night, with the Planning Board.

Filed for the Carl Realty Corp, of which Leo Barbo of Winchester is president, the plan shows that a 60 foot road, with a 42 foot travelled way, is to be construted from Concord Street, starting in North Reading, for a distance of about 3000 feet into the area.

The sub-division is planned for light industry, warehouses and office buildings. Two employees of the corporation, Fred Dewsnap and Don Martingale, told the Planning Board that Barbo's of Stoneham is planning a building which will cover four acres in area.

The single road was adopted, instead of the original proposal for a double road, they said, because there were clients who wanted land that would have a depth of 1000 feet. It would have been impossible to have served this client under the original plan, they said.

The North Reading Planning Board has already received a copy of the plan which was filed with the Wilmington board.

The entrance to the industrial area will be through North Reading the Planning Board was told, because the US Bureau of Roads objects to an entrance on Concord Street opposite to the place where the Route 93 clover leaf joins Concord Street.

The new industrial area, which was rezoned by the town in a special town meeting last fall, is expected to be one of the principal industrial - business sites in Wilmington Leo Barbo, at the time of the rezoning, told the people of Wilmington that he had about seven 'substantial' firms that were interested in locating in the area.

A Second Area

Immediately after the board had received the plans for the Barbo sub-division it turned to the discussion of a second industrial subdivision, to be located in the south industrial zone of Wilmington.

Atty Joseph F. Courtney, former Town Manager of Wilmington, representing the DiCenso Brothers, in a two hour discussion with the Planning Board revealed plans for a heavy industry subdivision of about 90 acres, to be located near the Woburn line.

Courtney, representing the Di Censo Brothers of Quincy, had plans for a road to be constructed from Woburn Street to West Street about 500 feet north of the Woburn line. The road, he said, would be sixty feet wide, with a forty-two foot travelled way.

The plan was discussed, but not filed with the board. Filing, Courtney said, would be 'in a couple of weeks, after engineering details had been completed'.

The plan had a total of 34 industrial lots. The smallest, near Woburn Street, had an area of 28,000 square feet, and the largest, also near Woburn Street, had an area of about 15 acres. Most of the lots were between 1 and 2 acres in area.

Courtney told the board that the 15 acre lot was being reserved for a firm that expects to build two substantial buildings, each of which will require a railroad siding.

A planned extension of the Boston & Maine railroad was shown on the FIRST PEAS? For many years Postmaster Henry J Porter has been trying to win the coveted but wholly ficticious Golden Peaspoon Award, for having the first peas for dinner, from his own garden, in June. This year Henry thinks he will have won it.

It is a Massachusetts tradition that peas from the family garden and salmon, caught from a local stream, should be served on Bunker Hill Day.

Henry picked his peas yesterday afternoon, (June 15) and Mrs Porter cooked them for the family supper.

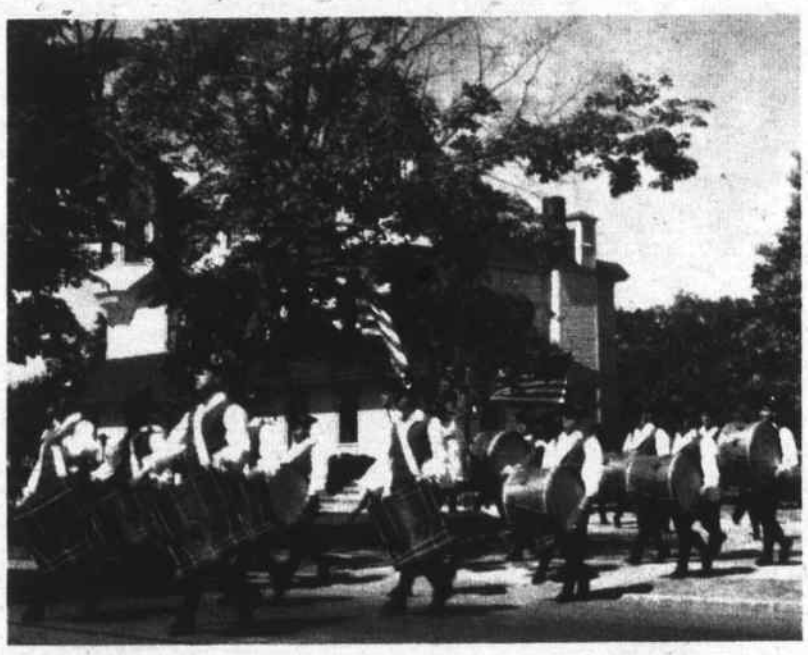

Five pass Police Exam

Five Wilmington residents have been reported as having passed the Massachusetts Civil Service examination, for appointment to the Wilmington Police Department. The examinations were taken on March 28th.

James Burke of Glendale Circle received a score in excess of 93. Leo Woodside of Roberts Road and Edward J Woods of Cottage Street each received a score of over 90. Herbert Colby, Grace Drive received 84 plus, and William Crane Jr., Hathaway Road, received 81 plus. A total of eight men took the examination.

Passage of the examination establishes the names of the candidtes on the Civil Service Eligible List, for a period of two years. They will be called upon to take their physical examinations in about a month.

There are no vacancies in the Police Department at this time.

BOOM BOOM BOOM: The noise heard all over town Sunday morning came from the drums of the famous Colonial Drum Band of Lynnfield, which escorted the Friendship Lodge of Masons, on their annual march to Church on St. John's Sunday.

LEGION ELECTION TONIGHT

Members of the Wilmington Post of the American Legion will vote tonight for new officers.

The balloting will be from 6 to 9 pm. The key contest is for the post of Commander. Frank Tebeau and Larry Noel are the two nominees.

THREE BREAKS OVER THE PAST WEEKEND

Wilmington Police are investigating a series of three cases of Break and Entry, which probably occured sometime Sunday night.

Sergeant Ellsworth discovered the first of the breaks, early Monday morning.

Police theorize that the first break was at the Wilmington Builders Supply Co., where a pinchbar was stolen, which was used to open a safe at the Wilmington Grain Co building, also on Main Street.

Later the thief or theives broke into the Goss Gas Station, also on Main Street, where candy and cokes were stolen, and a 1957 Chevrolet Station Wagon. A plate was taken from another car, and attached to the Chevrolet, the police say.

Total damages, in the three breaks, amount to about $500. An undertimed amount of money was stolen.

LAND SALE PLANNED FOR EARLY FALL

The Board of Selectmen are planning to conduct another land sale of town owned parcels of land, sometime in the early fall.

The Board of Assessors have received numerous requests in regard to certain parcels, from interested parties. They suggest that any person who has an interest in purchasing a town owned parcel should contact them, at their office, so that preparations can be made to get those certain parcels on the auction block.

Baby Beach is not Commercial

The Town of Wilmington, last Friday, won its long standing dispute with Angelo Sorretino of Lowell, the embattled owner of Baby Beach, at Silver Lake.

In a Finding of Fact, the Middlesex Superior Court ruled that there were no commercial priviliges for parking or bathing, at Silver Lake, under the town's Zoning By Laws or regular By Laws.

Counsel for Sorretino, Fred Corum of Wilmington and former City Solicitor James O'Hearne of Lowell agreed to dismiss their appeal of a finding by the Wilmington Board of Appeals last fall. The Wilmington Board of Appeals had found against Sorretino, on both counts.

The case started last Thursday with a view of the disputed area by the court and counsel for both sides. Justice Felix Forte of the Superior Court, who heard the case was heard to remark, at one point, that he wished he could stop in and see his old friend, Rocco De Pasquale, of Rocco's Restaurant.

There were about fifteen witnesses to Friday's session, with Town Clerk Esther Russell being the lead-off witness. Mrs Russell testified as to the validity of the town's Zoning By Law, and the By-Laws. The remaining witnesses were either for or against the appellant, and were about equally divided.

When His Honor delivered his finding he remarked that there was a home in the vicinity of the beach that was a detriment to the neighborhood. His remark was greeted with applause from one of the spectators.

The Judge asked that the person who had made the applause stand up. The appellant, Mr Sorretino, then stood up, and was evicted from the courtroom.

The town was represented by Town Counsel Alan I Altman.

Maj. Dick Montgomery destroyed 40 VC buildings

US Air Force Major Richard J Montgomery, formerly of Wilmington, son of Mrs Joseph Montgomery of Winter Park, Florida, has been credited with destroying 40 Viet Cong structures, in Viet Nam.

Major Montgomery, with his wingman, struck a VC battalion headquarters, in 45 concrete or masonry buildings. The major made numerous bomb passes over the stronghold, and achieved more than a 90 percent accuracy, despite 30 knot cross-winds. Only five heavily damaged buildings were left, when the Skyraider attack ended.

A Wilmington High School graduate, who attended the University of Florida, the Major was first commissioned in the Air Force in 1951. He is assigned to Pleiku Airport, in Vietnam, as a member of the Pacific Air Forces, America's air arm in Southeast Asia.

His wife, Eileen, now in Colorado, is the daughter of Postmaster and Mrs Henry J Porter of Wilmington.

Selectmen's Meeting

A traffic survey for the future speed zoning of Shawsheen Ave. was planned by the Selectmen, the newly created Traffic Safety Committee, and officials from the state DPW and Registry of Motor Vehicles, at the Monday night meeting of the Selectmen.

The purpose of the survey is to zone the street for speeds considered average for 85% of the vehicles travelling on it. The survey is to be conducted by the Wilmington police, with state assistance.

Larry Delaney of the Registry of Motor Vehicles told the Selectmen that any other streets in Wilmington, which they might wish to have zoned, should be included in the present survey. The Board instructed the Safety Committee to draw up a priority list of streets which might be included in such a survey.

Complaints of speeding on Shawsheen Avenue have been pressed recently by a group of citizens led by William Yetman, of that street. The complaints led to the proposed survey.

Michael Fiore of the state DPW explained that, once a street is zoned, the Wilmington Police can cite anyone for travelling at speeds considered unsafe for operating conditions.

This can be done, he said, even if the speed falls below the posted limit.

Fiore said that the cost to the town would include the purchase of the regulation traffic signs, which would be about six to a mile, at a cost of about $30 per sign. The town might as well survey all the streets where future zoning is desired, Fiore said, and then be able to put up the signs whenever money is appropriated for that purpose.

Chief of Police Paul Lynch, who was at the meeting, recommended that the survey include all streets running along Routes 129 and 62 in the town.

Baby Beach

Chairman Llloyd Bender reported to the board that the Court had decided in favor of the town, in the case against Angie Sorentino of Lowell, owner of Baby Beach An injunction has been issued against the further operation of the beach in violation of the zoning by-law.

Bender suggested thatthe town put up a fence in town owned land in front of the property, to prevent 'forseeable problems'. Others on the board doubted the legality of this action, and the question of adequately patrolling the property was referred to the Town Manager for resolution. Miceli commiented that perhaps the town had lost some thing in winning the case, since the problems of enforcement will now rest with the town, and Black commented that the owner could still invite his friends, providing that ther was no commercial operation

Taxi Licenses

A discussion of raising the limits of insurance coverage for taxis in Wilmington ended without resolution, and the subject was tabled. Joe Balestrieri, a local taxi operator, told of the difficulty in obtaining larger than $5000/10,000 cover age, and of its prohibitive costs. Miceli, who is an insurance salesman, confirmed the reluctance of insurance companies to issue coverage for taxis.

Selectman Niles suggested that no action be taken for the present, since it was not the desire of the Board to impose a hardship on local cab companies. Mrs Drew expressed disbelief when Balestrieri told her of instances in which people deliberately injured themselves in his cab, in order to collect insurance money.

'Do they really do that!' she exclaimed.

Carter Lane

Robert E Jordan of Carter Lane appeared before the board to register a complaint on the use of that street as a thru-way, for autos

The construction of the West Intermediate School at the end of the street has linked the area with the Boutwell Street School, and Boutwell Street.

Bender told Jordan that the new school did not make the street a thru-way, and Police Chief Paul Lynch said that there was nothing the police could do until after the contractor had completed his work on the school. The Selectmen asked the TM to investigate, and report back to the board on possible solutions, next Monday night

Anderson Testimonial

Bender announced that a testimonial dinner is to be held in honor of retiring Buildin Inspector Minot Anderson, on June 23rd, in the new Thrushwood Hall, on Andover Street, at 8 pm. Tickets, he said, are available from any member of the Board of Selectmen.

Licenses

License renewals were granted for Lee H Long and Associates, and an application from the Lowell Gas Company for extension of their pipeline on Pershing Street, accompanied by sketches and proposals, was granted.

The Sunday license of an unnamed establishment which had failed to meet the requirements of the Health Inspector was the suject of some discussion. The board agreed to give the party in question one week to clean up his premises sufficiently to pass a health inspection. If the requirements have not been met by that time the board will enforce a closure of the establishment.

Executive Session

Miceli registered a protest concerning an editorial in last week's Town Crier on an executive session held by the Selectmen last week. He protested what he called 'incorrect statements' in the paper and said it distressed him that a paper should print comment on an executive session. Mrs Drew voiced agreement with Miceli's protest.

Bender said that the blame should be placed on the Selectmen for conducting an executive session in a room with 'tissue paper walls' and suggested that the Town Hall be cleared for the next executive session.

PLANNING BOARD

plan. It would join the B&M near the former Hathaway home, the southern most building on Woburn Street. Permission to cross the land involved has already been granted, Courtney said.

The railroad is planned to cross the proposed street at two points, one of the crossings being designed to serve the proposed 15 acre lot, and the second crossing being at a point further east of the proposed 60 foot road.

At the eastern end of the proposed 4000 foot long road, near West Street, the DiCenso Brothers are now constructing a large building for the Ling Electronics firm. The building is to be ready for occupany in September.

Courtney told the Planning Board that he expects to file plans next week for the first part of the proposed industrial sub-division. The plans he hopes to file will encompass the first 1000 feet of the new road, starting from West Street He hopes to file the plans for the remainder of the 90 acre industrial subdivision within a couple of weeks, when the engineering has been finished.

Wicks Drive

A plan was filed for a small residential subdivision, to be located at the south end of Cunningham Street. At the suggestion of Danny Gillis, the street in the subdivision will be named Wicks Drive, in honor of the memory of Leslie Wicks, a Wilmington boy who was killed in th South Pacific, during World War II.

By Law Enforcement

A copy of a letter from the Deputy Building Inspector, Ralph Jenkins, to the Town Counsel, was read. Mr Jenkins was asking the Town Counsel for advice on six points, relative to enforcement of the zoning by-laws.

The points were 1, Camps, shops and other structures existing before the 1934 and 1955 Zoning By Laws were enacted; 2, Trailers and trailer inhabitants; 3, Sign violations, both temporary and permanent; 4, Junk salvage and refuse behind certain buildings; 5, An occupancy permit that has not been enforced, and 6, enforcement of the by laws where real seriousness of the case necessitates enforcement.

After the letter was read Jim Banda quipped to Chairman Danny Gillis that the letter was 'almost a copy of the Planning Board gripes that have been going on for years'.

Snow's Report

At 11:20 pm the board finally got around to discussing the report of Planner Sam Snow, with reference to proposed sites for the new Public Library.

Mr Snow had submitted a preliminary copy a week ago, which the Planning Board had presumably been studying.

TM Dick Henneberger was present to hear the discussion. He wanted to get a copy of the preliminary report, but was told that there were just enough for the members.

Snow discussed two sites, mainly during the oral discussion of his preliminary report.

The first was a discussion of the old St. Thomas site, and the second was a discussion of the Walker School site, identified by Snow only as 'Site Two' and 'Site Three'.

Snow told the board that if a library of the size proposed at the special town meeting last fall were to be built on the St Thomas site there would be only enough parking on the site for the staff of the library. Patrons, he said, would have to park 'elsewhere'.

Basing his estimates on the proposed plans, including the 90 person 'all purpose room' Snow said that there should be parking for a minimum of 42 cars. The plan he was using was for a library said to be about 15000 square feet. He noted that there was no scale to the plan.

Snow noted that the Assessor's Map did not agree with the actual site of the old church property. The property has a frontage on Middlesex Avenue, he said, of only 179 feet, and not 240 feet, and the area is only 42,938 square feet, not 2 and 3/4 acres.

Mrs McKie asked Snow: 'You mean the description of the site, in the warrant for the town meeting, last fall, was wrong?'

Snow: 'I think it was'.

Snow stated several times that he had had no clear directions of what he was to do. He was asked if the Library Trustees should have given such directions, and he said 'No - the Town'.

The town, he said, had not established an 'urgency' for a library. 'Six months, or four years' he did not have a clear direction as to the thinking of the town as to when a library should be built, and this made, he said, a substantial difference in the approach he had had to the work at hand.

He also noted that he had not been told as to whether or not he was to consider land other than town owned - would the town, for instance, go along with acquiring a site, for say $60,000? Such an item would have changed his plan of work in the study.

He was using, he said, 'Library Crieteria' tablished by some persons or groups which he did not identify. One of the points in the criteria was that a library should be 'flush to the sidewalk' - this was in answer to a statement by Banda that there 'should be green grass'. Snow said he did not agree with the premise, personally.

Speaking of the Walker School site, Snow said that both the proposed library, as shown, and the proposed town hall, from the plans of a couple of years ago, could fit on the Walker School grounds. There would be fifty feet between the buildings, and 'ample parking' if the school building were not there.

Banda and Mrs McKie were the principal questioners of Snow during the discussion of the two sites, and later, when the discussion got to the styling of the report, the two members were the ones who said that there 'was not enough background material'

They were joined by Rounds, and Chairman Gillis prarphrased their remarks to say that the report should be so written that a person, reading it five years from now, could understand the reasons for the decisions.

The board finally voted unanimously that Mr Snow should add a 'background' to his report.

Snow said he could do this, and have fifty copies ready for distribution at the time of the Selectmen's meeting next Monday.

Miceli said he doubted if what was said could be heard since the comments in te paper were incorrect. He added that the paper owes a sense of obligation to the Board, which should not be violated by leaking news of executive sessions.

Police Commendation

Black praised the quick and efficient work of Police Chief Paul Lynch and Officer Bobby Shelley in handling an accident on Route 128 near Lexington. The officers just happened on the scene at the time of the accident, and Black had the highest praise for their quick work in diverting traffic and summoning assistance for the injured.

Library Report

Niles inquired on the progress of the 'Library Report' by Planner Sam Niles, which was supposed to have been completed on June 2.

Henneberger said that Planning Board Chairman Danny Gillis had promised him the answers this week. Bender expressed distress at the fact that the Planning Board refused to release the report by Planning Consultant Sam Snow until they had either approved or disapproved it. He cited the failure of the town boards and committees to work together on past library proposals as a contributing factor in their defeat at town meetings.

Niles pointed out that the Board of Selectmen have no control over the Planning Board, that being a function of the TM. Henneberger said that he would try to have the report by next Monday's Selectmen's meeting.

Zoning Violations

Felice Vitale appeared before the board at the end of the meeting (he had been shut off during the meeting when he attempted to offer opinions), to cite a number of zoning violations in the town. He said that it was unfair of the town to enforce the zoning by-law in one instance, referring to Baby Beach, and not in others.

'Since we took one person to court, let's take all the other cases all the way to court' Vitale said.

Board members agreed with Vitale that the zoning by-law should be enforced uniformly and without prejudice, and suggested that Vitale should turn his list over to the Building Inspector and the Planning Board.

The meeting adjourned at 10 pm
